

I would like to register my extreme opposition to this requirement. The industries in favor of this tagging have made billion dollar businesses from this technology, and they now seek to monopolize it, citing an inability to continue to profit from it. This is patently untrue, and a remedy such as tagging is overtly unfair to consumers. History has shown that in spite of the progress of technology, these industries have shown spectacular growth. Please reject this proposal outright.